DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group I, claims 1-13 in the reply filed on 5/4/07 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that both groups are directed to novel processes. This is not found persuasive because the claims directed to a process for making the pharmaceutical composition comprising Form V sertraline are obvious since Form V sertraline is well known and the art is replete with guidance of how to make pharmaceutical compositions. Furthermore, prior art, which renders obvious claims 14-21, may or may not be pertinent to the claimed process of making sertraline Form V.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claim 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Schwartz et al (US 6,495,721).

Schwartz et al disclose a process that is substantially similar to the instant claims. See example 11 in column 7. Schwartz et al however, allege the production of Form II sertraline.

Art Unit: 1621

The instant claims allege the recovery of Form V sertraline. Please note that Schwartz et al disclose that Form V is converted to Form II sertraline. See column 4 lines 27-37. The examiner submits that the Form V is an inherent product in example 11 in Schwartz et al. The similarity of the instant claimed process steps and the process steps disclosed in Schwartz suggests Form V and Form II sertraline are made together. Since the instant claims read on mixtures of polymorphs they are anticipated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schwartz et al (US 6,495,721).

For a description of Schwartz et al see above 102 rejection. The instant claims differ in that they are directed to the use of a different solvents and reaction conditions. The example in Schwartz et al explicitly disclosed the use of butanol. The instant claims<sup>1</sup> are drawn to the use of analogous solvents. Furthermore the instant claims are directed to varying the process conditions. These limitations are deemed to be obvious since they are well within the purview of one having ordinary skill in the art. Furthermore, an ordinary artisan would be motivated to vary process conditions in order to optimize the recovery process. Absent a showing of unexpected results the claims are deemed as obvious.
